Harvest ships appear far more common than the tombships, and have been part of every Necron fleet so far encountered. So far all of the harvest ships encountered appear to belong to the same class, the only difference being the inclusion of a sepulchre-like chamber on some of the ships (though this does not change their outward appearance, nor does it appear to function in the same manner as those observed on tombships). Whether this is universally true is unknown, though it may well be the case considering the uniform appearance and design of the Necron warriors that have been encountered so far. Although the harvest ships appear lightly built compared to the solid designs used by the Imperium, these looks are highly deceptive, and they have proved to be incredibly resilient and difficult to destroy. So far there are only three cases of Imperial ships being able to disable a harvest ship, and in all three cases it required the firepower of several capital ships to achieve the feat. The harvest ship's resilient design combined with the sophisticated and devastatingly effective Necron weaponry they use makes them a match for all but the largest Imperial craft.

Known encounters:

666.M41 Yuctan: Squadron Farsight destroyed, harvest ships implicated.

962.M41 Bora Culpa Incident: Sighted around Bora Culpa, population found to be vanished after recon by Space Wolves Space Marines.
