SPECIAL • The Stryxis rely on weapon technology called “Ghost-Light” that when striking unshielded vessels inflict horrific crew casualties while only minimally affecting a ship’s hull. In damage terms they function as standard weapon batteries and lances in all respects but will not roll for or inflict critical damage. • Stryxis caravan vessels are unique constructions and follow the special movement rules outlined below. • The Stryxis are bitter enemies of the Eldar and cannot ally with any fleet that contains Eldar vessels.

The Stryxis have only been encountered among the sectors in the vicinity of the Koronus Expanse, where their nomadic caravans of dilapidated ships are open to anyone willing to barter something of value. It is unknown from what system the Stryxis hail from, and they are reticent about all but the most basic details of their enigmatic race. Vaguely canine in appearance, they have an eccentric and obscure culture, but by nature they are voracious traders that will not hesitate to make contact with other races. While they are a useful resource for a cunning Rogue Trader, their allies today may be foes tomorrow. They sell their goods and services to the highest bidder, having few scruples and no loyalty. They salvage any hulks they encounter and have developed weapons optimized for capturing rather than merely destroying enemy vessels.
