SPECIAL - The Apocalypse class battleship cannot be given Come to New Heading special orders. - If the Apocalypse is given Lock On special orders, it may increase the range of its lances to 60 cm for that Shooting Phase only. However, if this option is used and the lances are fired at 45 cm or greater, the Apocalypse will suffer an immediate Thrusters Damaged critical hit (but does NOT take 1 damage from the critical hit) as soon as the lances are fired.

The Apocalypse class is an ancient design that is generally believed to have been the precursor of the Retribution class battleship millennia ago. The superior technologies used to construct the multiple lance turrets on the Apocalypse have now all but been forgotten and so the small number of examples of this ship can never be replaced. The loss of even one will always be keenly felt. It has been theorised by Naval strategists that the vessel was specifically created to counter the ever-growing numbers of battleships and grand cruisers that attempted to lead Chaos raiding fleets from within the Eye of Terror. In this duty, the Apocalypse has proved itself to be everything the Imperial Navy could have wished for.

The rows of fearsome lance armament along the broadsides of the Apocalypse are its most distinctive feature. It has been noted that these lance arrays are fully capable of operating at much greater ranges by an engineering process that greatly increases the load-bearing capabilities of their main power relays. However, the array conduits themselves become notoriously unreliable when stressed this far and run-away power drains can easily start to sap energy from the ship's main drives, making the Apocalypse sluggish in the midst of battle. Thus, almost all existing Apocalypse class battleships keep their lance armament limited to medium ranges. Most Segmentum fleets have at least a few examples of the Apocalypse still in battle-worthy condition, though their numbers are gradually dwindling.
