SPECIAL	• Their point cost and profile above reflects a slightly modified Nicassar Rig and four Dhows. Nicassar Caravans are ponderously slow, but like their individual Dhows, they are surprisingly manoeuvrable.
	• A Nicassar Caravan moves 10cm in any direction during the movement phase, no more, no less.
	• It is not slowed down by blast markers, celestial phenomena or being crippled.
	• Cannot take Burn Retros , Come To New Heading or All Ahead Full special orders.
	• Nicassar Caravans have +1 Leadership (max. 10).

Though they have very little combat utility, Nicassar have powerful minds and rely on their telekinetic talents in particular to make up for their own limited mobility. Trading caravans are the large networks of conjoined Dhows which the Nicassar employ when travelling over long distances at their natural leisurely pace, sometimes over the course of centuries.

As they are most content when travelling and can survive for long periods in virtual hibernation, they are uniquely suited for their service to the Tau, exploring systems on the fringes of the Tau Empire. Occasionally caravans accompany Tau fleets to war, and if attacked the Dhows will attempt to move the community to safety, though it is not unknown for them to detach and fight vigorously in defence of their community and the Tau vessels supporting them.

USING NICASSAR CARAVANS

As opposed to a Rig and its separate Dhows, a Nicassar Caravan in motion has its Rig and Dhows as a single entity that does not separate throughout the course of the battle and is treated as a single vessel in all respects. It can be crippled normally, but it does not take critical damage in the normal sense. If the Caravan takes critical damage, apply an additional 1 Hp damage instead. When a Caravan is reduced to zero hits, it and its Dhows all count as destroyed. Remove it from play and replace it with four blast markers centred around the point where it was destroyed.
